

You may be able to try these generic medications without paying a copayment!

You read that right. No copayment. That's because they're part of GenericSelect, a program that makes it easy for members to try specific generic medications. The program only covers the first time you're trying the drug. It also only covers the first 28-count supply. But it's a great way to see if a generic is right for you.

You are eligible for GenericSelect if:

- you are an Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield member with an Anthem pharmacy benefit
- you haven't used the GenericSelect medication being prescribed
- your doctor wrote the prescription for a 28-count for the first fill

Keep in mind that GenericSelect only covers the first 28-count supply. Your standard copayments will apply for additional refills.
